Competition Remit and Entry Form

The Scottish Episcopal Church is working towards achieving net zero carbon emissions by 2030. The Diocesan Youth Committee are launching an exciting competition to run through Lent 2021 and would like to invite all young people in the Diocese to share their ideas on what they suggest might be done towards making their own congregations more eco-friendly. Ideas can be fun and wacky or more serious.

The scope for entries can be in any form e.g., computer graphic, art, cartoon, video, story, song, poetry…. the possibilities are endless. We want you to get creative.

The judging panel are

- The Right Revd. Ian Paton, Bishop of St Andrews, Dunkeld and Dunblane.
- The Revd. Elaine Garman, Rector of St John's, Forfar and St Margaret, Lunanhead and a member of the Provincial Church and Society Committee.
- The Revd. David Coleman, Chaplain with Eco-Congregation Scotland and a minister with The United Reformed Church.
- Neil Gaunt, a member of St Kessog's, Auchterarder, a Registered Architect and a member of the Diocesan Buildings Committee.

It is hoped that all entries might form part of a Diocesan roadshow once restrictions on travel and meeting are lifted.

There are three prizes of vouchers of the winner's own choice: £50, £25 and £15

Entries open on Ash Wednesday 17th Feb 2021 and close on Holy Saturday 3rd April 2021.

Winners will be announced at Ascension, 13th May 2021

Entry forms are available on the website to download and entries, accompanied by the entry form can be sent online to youthcommittee@standrews.anglican.org.
